1878

During the Dalkeith innings the umpire called a wide, but Fox and his partner had run to each others wicket. The ball was thrown in to the wicketkeeper, and Fox, thinking the ball was dead, was proceeding to his own wicket when he was stumped and given out. He was asked to return to the wicket but refused.

This visit from Drumpellie is noted as being the first Against Clydesdale N. Watt and Alex. Wood held out for 30 mins. scoring 2, to save the game.

Against North of Ireland, Hudsons bowling fast underhands "sneakers all the way" proved unplayable in the first innings.
